To Jason Albon,

I am writing regarding the planning application from 21 St Botolphs road, Worthing. I have lived round the corner, backing onto the nursery, for over 30 years. The previous nursery owners were courteous and respectful to the neighbourhood around them, unfortunately the same can't be said for the new owners.

In particular their attitude towards their customers dropping off children while creating havoc for the surrounding area, an increase in customers would only exacerbate the issue. They have no regard for the safety of their customers or the implications this has on the area, they continually park their long wheel base van on the double yellow lines on the corner that the property resides on,(they have a large driveway they chose not to park this or an of their vehicles on), consequently blocking the view of cars trying to pull out, it wont be long until there is an accident.

The parents constantly park on double yellow lines, corners and more occasionally than id like their children run into the busy road (this is a large issue due to drivers not being able to see round their large van), another 30 children would be a complete safety hazard and i suspect it would end in disaster.

Of course renovations are expected on a property of that age and its surrounding garden, but yet again they have no regards for the neighbours, by cutting down many mature trees which has now eradicated the noise cancelling effect they had,(yet again this would be exacerbated by more children). They have also erected an unsightly wall that ruins the historical characteristics of our area.

Regards, Debbie Olive
