Comments:
The fence is too high for a residential area, especially as a number of bungalows, mine included, now look onto stark, monstrous, wooden panels. The imposing height, length and colour combined is a harsh blot on the landscape and the overall appearance and style is that of an industrial area and not residential.
I understand that the owners require a secure boundary but this can still be achieved with a lower fence due to the tall hedging already behind it. The hedging and 4-5ft fencing combination, that previously marked the side boundary, suited the appearance of a residential road unlike the new fence.
