I am writing with regard to the above application.

Our property is overlooked by the fully accessible balcony and I have viewed the application and drawing submitted.

The drawing is dated February 2018, showing a fully accessible balcony. I assume that planning was rejected then, but has still been built with a fully accessible balcony, and with a few changes to the plans that are listed below:-

An en-suite toilet
Stud external walls, not blockwork, with painted boarding
No tile hanging, not in keeping with adjacent properties.

I assume that building regs have been complied with.

Work was being carried out over Easter, including lots of loud music, and has been ongoing since. There is still work to complete.

I am not sure what has recently been attached to the balustrade (see photo) and whether it is permanent.
