Reasons for comment:	- Design
Comments:	As other respondents had written, the signage is inappropriate for a residential area. The flagpole is there for advertising purposes. The boards on the fencing are also there for the same purpose. I would suggest any signs should be limited to what is required to inform visitors of the location, be only as large as necessary. The question of discrete illumination to assist visitor identify the premises in hours of darkness has yet to be raised and perhaps could be put to the applicants. In this way hopefully all issues will be addressed in the one application.
