> Dear planning,

> In reply to Mrs Gogans letter of complaint I would like to state that internal alterations have added no extra bedrooms only changing position as was a better use of space, the addition of a toilet in games room was an oversite on original plans as we're skylights, which under 2016 building regulations no planning permission is required.
> The fire escape is required as I have an open plan kitchen and staircase so if there was a fire in kitchen an alternative escape route is required under 2016 building regulations.
> As for her statement on 'master bedroom' as I am the sole occupant I will decide which room I sleep in.
> As for all of her assumptions of the use of my house they are exactly that and should be treated as such.
