VELUX super sound insulation roof windows

Super sound insulation

Turn your dream of a nice, peaceful sleep into reality. Choose super sound insulating VELUX roof windows if you live near a highway, an airport or any other loud area – and reduce sound by up to 50% (compared to a standard VELUX roof window).

The VELUX team of acoustic specialists has developed a roof window that reduces the sound of rainfall by Rw 7 dB (a halving of the noise to the human ear) and sound in general by Rw 42 dB (compared to a standard VELUX roof window).

Features

- Extreme sound insulation - Rw 42 dB according to EN ISO 717-1
- Rain noise reduction
- Extra heat insulation
- A clear view with anti-dew coating on outer glass pane that reduces dew accumulation
- Available in centre-pivot or top-hung operation

Extra energy efficiency

This window comes with advanced triple glazing that provides extreme sound and heat insulation. You will experience a quieter, warmer home and lower energy bills.

You can hear but not see the difference

The combination of laminated and extra thick glass helps provide better sound insulation. A specially designed frame, sash constructions and a vibration damping foil deliver a difference that you can hear immediately. But the window - whether in pine or maintenance-free finish – looks and operates just like any other VELUX roof window.

Background ventilation

The window is operated as a standard centre-pivot or top-hung roof window but without the background ventilation. This window is filled with extra insulation to maximise sound properties. To enjoy fresh air, the window must be opened.

Additional features

VELUX super sound insulating windows are built upon VELUX centre-pivot and top-hung operated manual windows. Read more about the additional benefits of a VELUX windows, by clicking on the link below.
