Hi Emily

The tree is a mature specimen near the end of its life span. It has evidence of late stage ganoderma with visible brackets and heavy decay. There is also a large split in the main trunk that opens up when strong winds are present. Please see attached photos.

Kind regards Matt Rimmington director/owner at Arolla tree care

