Hello Carlos, find attached comments regarding the above. I should advise also that the contributions have been calculated based on the information submitted on the application form. For the previous application (ADC/0092/08), the Applicants provided a schedule of existing residential and non-residential uses. The current application does not include this and the schedule of existing uses is quite different. This does lead me to suggest which is then correct. If the application form for the current application is incorrect, then the TAD contribution may be reconsidered based on the information provided last time, providing that is this information can be resubmitted.

Best regards

Ian
