Dear Sir,

I have received notification of a planning application made by 57 The Crescent, for a single-storey side and rear extension.

I have looked at the plans and I very strongly object to the design.

It is so close to the boundary line of our propertys that it makes it impossible for me to have an extension myself of a reasonable size, because of the foundations that will no doubt extend into my property.

It will also cause a massive loss of light to my back room because it is so close to the boundary line.

Judging by the size of the room that this extension will create, I don't think it unreasonable of me to ask that the side wall be moved at least 300mm in from the position they are proposing now.

This would make it possible for me to have an extension myself with no problems because of the foundations and would greatly help with the loss of light situation.

Yours faithfully
