Comments: I am still confused by the parking issue, there is about 150ft of parking, more parking there than along the rest of the road as there are houses on both sides all the way up and don't see any problems there. There would be parking spaces in the front garden and one for the bungalow. As said in previous comment I don't need planning for vehicle cross over or to build a garage as this doesn't have to be proposed. A garage will be the option if the bungalow is rejected but the bungalow would look much better. thanks Matt
