My comments:

This building was being built a few months ago, replacing the existing roof/shelter. I presumed planning permission had been already in place.
Previous to this alteration - it was just a roof with a few sheets of plastic hanging down to give some protection from the elements. Now it has new roof, windows and doors and appears to be a proper unit/warehouse. There has been an unreasonable increase in noise in the mornings, sometimes starting from 6am. My neighbour (44 St Richards) and myself called the company and they told us both that they have no restrictions on noise. There is also light pollution at night, flood lights on top of the roof that floods into our back rooms, lights left on in the new unit, which then amplifies with reflecting through windows. Last night there was a vehicle parked up in their yard with orange flashing lights on all night, I had to sleep downstairs in front room as you can appreciate, the flashing was annoying. I feel this is all very unreasonable and inconsiderate behaviour, and the fact they have clearly altered usage without prior consultation shows ill will on the company's part. Please take my comments into consideration and hoping that a compromise can be reached with he company.

Look forward to hearing from you soon.

Kind regards
