To: planning@adur-worthing.gov.uk <planning@adur-worthing.gov.uk>

Hello,
I would like to raise my concern about the loft extension at 146 Old Shoreham Road and the quality of the work that has been done. The neighbouring house (144) was my parents house and I stayed there for the tail-end of the loft construction up until the end of March.

Had my parents known that the roof tiles were of a completely different design to the other houses in the terrace, I suspect they would have raised concerns earlier, but this was not evident in the original planning diagrams provided. As it is, now that the roof has been installed, the ridge tiles on the left side of the roof have been left unfinished for several months and show exposed wood which is clearly visible by anyone walking down Old Shoreham Road.

I trust there will be adequate inspection of the quality of the loft conversion work and that any necessary repairs will be mandated. I do not understand why the builder would consider the work to be complete, and I question what else might be unfinished.

Yours faithfully,
Trevor
