Dear Sir or Madam,

On reviewing the plans for the single storey extension adjoining my property, I would like to dispute the height of the structure. The reason for this is that I feel the light through my patio doors into my lounge will be severely compromised. In addition to this, to look out on my brick built garage as well as a high brick wall to the right will be very confining. I have voiced my concerns to my neighbour and he can totally understand how I feel. I am aware that my neighbours have the right to build, however I value my light and seeing as the houses in our row face in a south easterly direction, we are limited to direct sunlight during the summer months as it is, let alone the winter. I look forward to hearing from you.

Yours sincerely
Marilyn Bush
