Many thanks for your reply. I am not too sure that this is a very suitable 'conservation' material for a CA.
Perhaps slate hanging would be more appropriate - if more expensive!
The lower buildings have a pleasant Georgian mansarded appearance which does positively contribute to the character of the High Street. On the other hand the white plastic cladding of the early 19th Century No.10 is certainly not very attractive and one wonders how, or if, it received TP permission.
Cheers, Michael Norman.

Dear Mr Norman

Thanks for your email to Keith Morgan which has been passed to me as case officer to respond.

The application is proposing HardiePlank fibre cement weatherboarding rather than timber. Details of the product can be found at the link below.

No colour has been specified at this stage but this can be controlled by condition.

Regards

Peter Barnett
