Comments : This an already dorma extended property, built without notification to myself a few years ago was intrusive enough without it creeping even nearer to my boundary. Also being able to have a clear view of 3 bedroom windows, one bathroom, kitchen, one living room and a conservatory feels like a violation of basic privacy!

Also when I purchased my property the overall purchase price reflected the fact the garden was completely secluded and not overlooked, this was a major selling point and a significant factor for me in purchasing!

If permission is granted this will no longer be the case, and a genuine feature of our property will be lost, hence devaluing it.

Also with my wife having social anxiety issues is saddened by the prospect of the said property being nearer and with a sprawling view of what before was completely private.
