Parking is already an issue in the area and people regularly park on the pavement. As disabled people we need to be able to park near home and this can already be an problem. Larger properties with more people will only increase this problem.

When works have been carried out in the area works vehicles often take up a lot of space which is a particular issue for disabled people. If this plan is allowed to go ahead then this needs to be taken into account.

Too many properties have been extended in this area which is creating a crowding situation and has increased the issues around parking and also noise nuisance. This has set a precedent but it is now becoming out of hand. The boundary of the property will also be a lot closer to other properties and may increase noise nuisance especially with more people in the property and of course the property can be sold so the intended use could change.

Consideration also needs to be given to the noise that will be generated if the works are given the go ahead, the times and how long the work will take. This will have a huge impact on people who have to be home a majority of the time working, home learning etc and especially for those who are disabled and neurodivergent.
