Supporting information requirements

Where a development proposal is likely to affect features of biodiversity or geological conservation interest, you will need to submit, with the application, sufficient information and assessments to allow the local planning authority to determine the proposal.

Failure to submit all information required will result in your application being deemed invalid. It will not be considered valid until all information required by the local planning authority has been submitted.

Your local planning authority will be able to advise on the content of any assessments that may be required.

Biodiversity net gain

Biodiversity net gain is a legal requirement for planning permission introduced on 12 February 2024. All applications are required to either provide detailed information proving there will be a biodiversity increase; or explain why the requirement does not apply to the development.

Do you believe that, if the development is granted permission, the general Biodiversity Gain Condition (as set out in Paragraph 13 of Schedule 7A of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 \(as amended\)) would apply?

- ☐ Yes
☒ No

Biodiversity net gain has been introduced as a general condition for planning permission. As set out in The Environment Act 2021: "grants of planning permission in England [are] to be subject to a condition to secure that the biodiversity gain objective is met". Therefore, in England, all planning permissions are generally subject to biodiversity gain rules, unless they are specifically exempt or out of scope.

If you have stated that the biodiversity net gain requirement does not apply to your application you must provide the reason(s) why, and may also need to supply evidence (especially where you believe the application is eligible for the 'de minimis' exemption).

Please add all the reasons why biodiversity net gain does not apply and enter a justification for each one

Reason biodiversity net gain does not apply:

Development subject to the de minimis exemption (development below the threshold)

What best describes the size of your site?:

Under 25 square metres

Please justify the reason why biodiversity net gain does not apply:

The habitat is below the de minimus threshold of 25 square metres and no changes are proposed to the buildings or the surrounding land.

Note: Please read the help text for further information why developments may be exempt or not in scope.

Industrial or Commercial Processes and Machinery

Does this proposal involve the carrying out of industrial or commercial activities and processes?

- ☒ Yes
☐ No

Please describe the activities and processes which would be carried out on the site and the end products including plant, ventilation or air conditioning. Please include the type of machinery which may be installed on site:

Hot water and dried grains are infused together in an insulated sealed vessel called a Mash Tun. The resulting liquid, called wort, is then boiled in a specialised tank called the 'Copper' or 'Kettle', while any spent grains are collected and donated to local farming partners.

The boil lasts for an hour with the primary objective of pasteurisation, hops, fruits or other flavours may be added at this point.

During the boiling period steam generated is collected in a flue and cooled with cold water injection, turning it into condensate that is either collected for cleaning or sent down the effluent drain.

The boiled wort is then cooled by way of a plate heat exchanger and sent to a fermenting tank where yeast is added and the wort ferments (normally 5-10 days) at a managed temperature. Fermentation is finished when the yeast stops fermenting and creating sugar. This is measured with a hydrometer.

The wort conditions (normally a further 10-15 days) at a cooler temperature. During this phase the wort (now referred to as beer) may have additional ingredients added (hops, fruit, flavouring), spent yeast and hops will precipitate out of the beer and collect at the bottom of the tank. The beer may also be carbonated by means of controlled pressurisation or forced injection of Co2.

Once finished, the beer is packaged into can, keg and/or cask.

The remaining trub (leftover beer, hop and yeast waste) is collected and either donated to a farming partner for compost or collected for biofuel.

Packaged beer is counted and moved to an on site duty suspended refrigerated locked storage facility until it is ordered by a customer, removed from storage and delivered either by our own vehicle, an approved courier partner (DX or APC) or haulier for pallets.
