ESTABLISHED 1946

On your approval please return this email to sales@petersigns.co.uk and type the word "APPROVED" in the subject bar of the email.

Once the artwork has been approved it is your responsiblity for any further changes or mistakes - costs will apply.

Terms and conditions:

- All work remains the property of Petersigns until full and final payment has been received. This gives Petersigns the right to remove any sign work if contract not fulfilled by you the client.

- We at Petersigns request a 50% deposit on every job and then the final outstanding balance is strictly due on the day of the completion of their work.

- Once a proof has been created, and you, the client, has agreed to it, a legally binding contract has been entered in to by both parties. If a change of mind occurs after the work has been installed, then the new work will be re-quoted and re-proofed, thus starting a new contract. The initial work under the first contract will require full payment to clear that invoice prior to new designs being created.

- If the signs or graphics to be installed require any electrical work, this must be carried out by a fully qualified electrician before Petersigns begin their sign or graphics installation.
  If our installation team arrive on-site to begin their work and find that the electrical work has not been installed prior to their arrival and thus need to come back to site on another day, extra time and petrol costs will be incurred by you, the client.

- When we survey the site for your signwork we will give you a full quote judged on what is able to be seen. However, should the proposed work require that the existing signwork needs to be removed and then it is found that more work is necessary, we retain the right to re-quote taking into consideration the extra time and materials required.

- All necessary planning consents must be gained by you, the client, before Petersigns begin any installation that requires such consents.

- It is the responsibility of you, the client, to dispose of any old signwork taken down by our installation team - unless prior arrangements have been made.

- Peter Signs do not accept any liability for the integrity of any materials supplied to us by the customer.

- Unless otherwise discussed we guarantee your signage for one year. (excluding temporary signage and banners).
  We would however expect your signage to last much longer but there are many factors that determine the life-span of your signage including but not limited to:
- Location - Is it an interior or exterior sign
- How much sunlight exposure your sign has. The protons in the sunlight breakdown the molecules in the colour pigments of the ink over time.
- What colour sign you choose (red fades fastest, black deteriorates faster in south facing external signage)
- How close to the road your sign is
- How close to the seafront your sign is (salt damage)
- Orientation of signage ie. South, east, north or west
- Is the signage in a particularly windy location

Most common type of materials used:

- PVC Banner - short term / temporary signage
- Fomex plastic - best for interior or short term / temporary signage
- Dibond (aluminium composite material) - Medium Life span
- True aluminium - powder coated signtrays or flat panels Long Life span

- If you have any problems with your signage please always contact us in the first instance and we will do our very best to help you.
  However, we cannot be held responsible for wear and tear and the ordinary operation of natural forces.
- The owner of the signage has a duty of care to maintain the signage. This should include regular cleaning, especially in seaside locations.
- We cannot be held responsible to deterioration due to neglected signage.

By approving the work displayed on the proof you are also agreeing to the terms set by Peter Signs above.
Receipt of payment including deposit or full payments constitutes full agreement of the terms and conditions.

Thank you for your business!
