Dear Jo

The plans have been amended again following your most recent comments. Please would you confirm that the layout is now ok?

Thanks

Hello Peter.

Thank you for sending through Jo's comments which make sense particularly with regards to doors being wedged open.
We have now reorganised the internal layout and feel what we have indicated is an improvement and will provide Sports England with the comfort they require.

Refer amended drawings enclosed.

Hi Sean

Sport England have made some comments about the revised layout (see below). Please could you take a look and amend the plans as necessary?

Thanks

Hi Peter,

Thanks for sending the amended drawings. I don't consider that this is sufficient as doors tend to get wedged open. A better solution is to provide doors at right angles like those to the WCs. Perhaps the rooms could be reorganised so that the WCs are within the changing area and the space they occupy can become the entrance to the main change space. Alternatively, an immovable privacy screen would work. I have attached a very poor example of each for consideration.
