Hi Peter,

I have looked at the two acoustic reports and I have no objections with regards to noise and vibration.

Both reports specify mitigation that is necessary to control noise and vibration and I would recommend that a condition is placed on any permission to ensure the appropriate glazing, MVHR and construction advice is implemented. The Anderson report calculates noise reduction from the building envelope based on a presumed construction of the building. If the final construction design deviates from this presumption then the new proposed construction design should be run past the Acoustician to ensure it meets the necessary sound reduction required.

Hi

We consulted you about this planning application on June 13th but have not received any comments yet.

Please could you submit your comments as soon as possible, in particular in respect of the proximity to the substation? This is a revised scheme following AWDM/1863/22 which was to be built over the substation. Following issues with the build over, the building is now separate from the substation.

Thanks
