| Comments: | As someone who will be a potential first time buyer in the near future i think this development will benefit all round. Also the current site is in a bad state of disrepair and is extremely dated. The flats around it are also in need of a revamp and i think a new block would spur on further developments in those blocks. It's a large site that is going to waste and a block of flats is, i think, the best option for it. |
