Hi Gary

I am surprised and extremely disappointed to see that my neighbour has raised a concern and changed her mind on my proposal and raised another concern over noise. This is unfortunate as the proposal did have her backing before I submitted it.

I do feel that her reasons or worries are misplaced and the proposal is actually a very reasonable neighbourly solution to our situation.

I note that this objection was submitted after the deadline for the consultation date, so I am obviously concerned about this technicality but I am keen to find a neighbourly solution.

I have attached several pictures and documents showing that there will be no loss of light and would invite you to attend should you need further assurances that this is a good proposal.

With regards to noise, I feel this is an unreasonable comment and should be discounted. The space will be mainly for storage of oversized items and could serve as a small study space / home office for myself and not a "teenagers hang out" which is quite insulting.

It would also be fairly argued that the proximity of her other neighbours are far closer than me and I'm sure any noise concerns should they arise, are dealt with in the appropriate manner. I would like it noted that I have not had any noise complaints raised against me or my family.

Please can you upload the attached documents which I feel demonstrate any concerns over loss of light to be unfounded.
Please contact me to discuss the matter.

Kind regards,

James
