St Mary's House Dental Care

St Mary's House is a listed Georgian building and houses various organisations. The dental practice has been in existence for nearly 35 years and occupies 5 rooms on the ground floor

The current owner, Celine Byrne, took over the practice in January 2007 and since that time has overseen major renovation and improvement works, some of which were the subject of an earlier application for planning permission and listed buildings consent .Awareness of environmental issues informed the refurbishment of the public areas-reception and waiting room. Materials were all from sustainable sources from the hand built oak desk to the wooden flooring. The rooms were painted with solvent free paint. Although it was not possible to recreate an authentic Georgian interior, attempts were made to make the decoration more suitable to the age of the building than had previously been the case.

The dental surgeries themselves are thoroughly modern. State of the art equipment has been installed to ensure that the surgeries offer a clinically hygienic environment. Video technology and intra oral cameras keep patients advised and informed. The practice is now fully computerised.

The dental practice has served the local community for 35 years and, under its new ownership, provides a modern, efficient and professional service. To accentuate the changes, there has been a rebranding of the practice. There is a practice logo and a website is in the process of development. These changes are being brought to the attention of the wider public through various marketing exercises. New patients are provided with information about the practice but many have difficulty locating it. It is opposite the church but there are two other dental practices in the area which also fit that description.

St Mary's House is an imposing building but is rather overshadowed by the car park at the front of it. This does make it difficult for the practice to be seen from the road. The present signage is difficult to read and does not reflect the practice's new image. Brass plaques give the names of the practice and two of the dentists. The plaques are attached to a wooden frame between a window and the entrance door. On the other side of the window is a blue plaque giving a history of the building.

The proposal is to have the practice name and logo on a polyurethane sign with detail in relief. There will be two levels of relief: 1. the silhouette 2. the text
The sign would be 500mm wide and 875 mm deep, replacing the present wooden frame. The sign has been designed by a company who specialise in providing signs for listed buildings as it was important that the sign be sympathetic to the building. The sign would be in harmony with the blue plaque. It would also reflect the distinctive nature of the dental practice and, it is to be hoped, be more clearly visible from the road.
